Invitation

Dear Colleagues,

We are delighted to extend a cordial invitation to you for the upcoming Annual Conference of the Indian Association of Veterinary Pathologists (IAVP) which will be held jointly with the Annual Meeting of the Indian College of Veterinary Pathologists (ICVP), The Davis Thompson Foundation Workshop and National Symposium on “Evolving Paradigms in Veterinary Pathology: Integrating Digital, Clinical, Molecular and Computational Diagnostics”. This esteemed gathering marks yet another milestone in our collective journey of advancing Veterinary Pathology and strengthening scientific collaboration across the nation. Building on the IAVP legacy, this conference provides a dynamic platform for knowledge sharing, innovation, and scientific dialogue among academicians, researchers, diagnosticians, and allied professionals. The ICVP Annual Meeting offers a dedicated forum for Veterinary Pathologists to discuss academic standards, speciality training, and the discipline's future in India, reinforcing commitment to excellence in education and practice.

We are privileged to host a special Workshop with The Davis-Thompson Foundation (formerly C.L. Davis Foundation)—a volunteer-run, non-profit organization advancing global veterinary and comparative pathology since 1973 through courses, webinars, and the world's largest pathology image repository. This workshop will feature hands-on training and expert-led sessions on contemporary diagnostic challenges. The National Symposium, themed “Evolving Paradigms in Veterinary Pathology: Integrating Digital, Clinical, Molecular and Computational Diagnostics,” will serve as the intellectual core of the event. Veterinary Pathology remains the cornerstone of animal health management, providing critical insights for disease diagnosis, surveillance, and control strategies. While classical approaches such as gross pathology, histopathology, and cytology continue to hold immense relevance, the field is rapidly evolving with the integration of modern technologies. Advances in molecular diagnostics, genomics, proteomics, bioinformatics, and digital pathology are redefining the way diseases are detected, understood, and managed. Recent innovations such as PCR-based diagnostics, next-generation sequencing, biosensors, and AI-driven imaging have revolutionized disease investigation by enabling early, precise, and high-throughput pathogen detection. These advances enhance diagnostic efficiency and open new avenues for studying disease pathogenesis and epidemiology. Given the challenges of emerging diseases, climate change, and evolving livestock systems, a multidisciplinary, technology-driven approach is essential. This conference bridges traditional knowledge with modern innovations to foster a more resilient and responsive veterinary healthcare system. This prestigious event will be hosted by the Department of Veterinary Pathology, College of Veterinary Science & Animal Husbandry, DUVASU, Mathura, from 17th–20th November 2026. You are warmly invited to join this four-day scientific programme featuring thought-provoking sessions, interactive discussions, and collaborative opportunities, as we come together to advance veterinary pathology.

We look forward to Welcome you and eager to your esteemed participation.

With warm regards,

Prof. (Dr.) Desh Deepak Singh

College of Veterinary Science & Animal Husbandry

DUVASU, Mathura, Uttar Pradesh

ABOUT VENUE: DUVASU

Established on October 25th, 2001, by the Government of Uttar Pradesh under Act No. 27 of 2001, Uttar Pradesh Pandit Deen Dayal Upadhyaya Pashu Chikitsa Vigyan Vishwavidyalaya Evam Go-Anusandhan Sansthan (DUVASU), Mathura, is a premier institution dedicated to excellence in Veterinary and Animal Sciences. The University was formed by carving out the College of Veterinary Science and Animal Husbandry from Chandra Shekhar Azad University of Agriculture and Technology, Kanpur, with the former becoming its first constituent College. Its parent college, established in 1947, was the first Veterinary College in independent India and among the first in Asia to introduce a degree programme in Veterinary Science. The institution pioneered postgraduate (MVSc) programmes in 1951 and doctoral (PhD) programmes in 1953, setting benchmarks in veterinary education and research. Over decades, DUVASU has built a legacy of academic excellence, producing distinguished alumni who serve globally as educators, scientists, policymakers, consultants, and administrators. The University actively engages in high-quality, nationally and internationally relevant research in animal health, production, and disease diagnostics, addressing contemporary challenges in livestock production and animal healthcare. It also empowers livestock owners, especially smallholder farmers and rural women, through scientific knowledge, technical support, and sustainable livelihood opportunities.

DEPARTMENT OF VETERINARY PATHOLOGY

Established in 1948 within the college's main building, the combined Department of Pathology and Bacteriology was split in 1964: Pathology moved to the western wing and Microbiology to the eastern wing.

The Department now features fully equipped, modern laboratories for clinical pathology, histopathology, and molecular pathology, along with a museum, seminar rooms for graduate and postgraduate students, a photography room, postmortem rooms for poultry & a separate postmortem unit for large animals. The postgraduate degree program began in 1958, followed by the PhD program in 1963. The department has a strong record of scientific contributions to disease diagnosis and control in animals and poultry. To date, over 78 students have completed their MVSc degrees and 10 have been awarded PhDs. Since its inception, the Department has been actively involved in organizing seminars, training sessions, and brainstorming workshops.

INDIAN ASSOCIATION OF VETERINARY PATHOLOGISTS

The Indian Association of Veterinary Pathologists (IAVP) was founded in March, 1974 during a landmark scientific gathering of Veterinary Pathologists held at Indian Veterinary Research Institute, Bareilly, Uttar Pradesh under the visionary leadership of its founding President, Prof S. Damodaran. Established with the objective of bringing together Veterinary Pathologists across the country under a unified professional platform, the Association has grown into a vibrant and respected fraternity with approximately 1,500 life members. IAVP is dedicated to advancing the science of Veterinary Pathology by fostering professional excellence, encouraging collaborative research, and promoting the exchange of knowledge on animal diseases and diagnostic approaches. Since the organization of its first Convention and Symposium in 1983 at Veterinary College Bangalore, and its continuation as an annual event since 1986, IAVP has consistently provided a dynamic forum for academicians, researchers, and professionals to deliberate on contemporary issues in animal health. The annual conventions, centred on relevant and emerging themes, serve as a platform for presenting cutting-edge research, sharing expert insights, and formulating strategic recommendations. These recommendations are subsequently communicated to national bodies such as Indian Council of Agricultural Research and other government agencies, contributing to the development of evidence-based policies and programs in animal health and disease management. Through its sustained efforts, IAVP continues to play a pivotal role in strengthening Veterinary Pathology education, research, and national development initiatives.

INDIAN COLLEGE OF VETERINARY PATHOLOGISTS

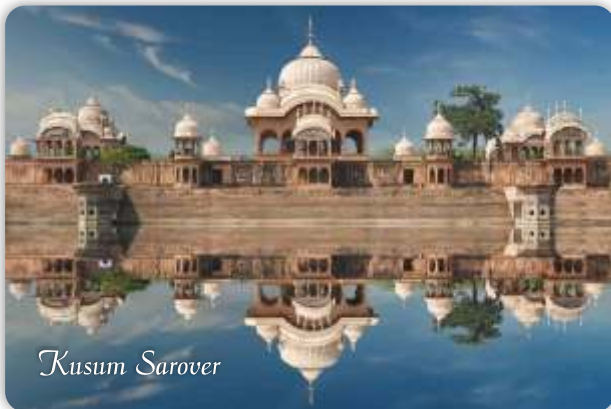

The Indian College of Veterinary Pathologists (ICVP) was established in 2008 under the aegis of the Indian Society for Certification of Veterinary Pathologists, with its headquarters at Indian Veterinary Research Institute. It functions as an independent professional certification body dedicated to accrediting Veterinary Pathologists in India. The College aims to advance the discipline of Veterinary Pathology and its diverse sub-specialties including Clinical Pathology, Avian Pathology, Aquatic Animal Pathology, Laboratory Animal Pathology, and toxicopathology by setting high standards for training, professional practice, and experience. ICVP was conceptualized and established by a distinguished group of 22 Life Members of the Indian Association of Veterinary Pathologists, recognized as Charter Members for their exemplary contributions across academia, research, industry, and professional practice. Through its commitment to excellence, ICVP plays a pivotal role in strengthening professional competency, standardization, and global recognition of Veterinary Pathology in India.
